

The idea that the FCC should relax the current standards in any way is egregious. If anything, standards of what is shown on television and heard on the radio should be raised. There is already enough violence, profanity, and inappropriate material that is circulated through these mediums as it is. NO MORE.